Subject: New expert in parasitology

Dear customers,

We are pleased to announce that a new parasitologist named Dr Pablo Godoy has recently joined the team of the Parasitology Laboratory of the Diagnostic Service. Originally from Chile, Dr Godoy studied veterinary medicine at UNICIT (Santiago, Chile) and graduated in 2006. He then continued his training in Quebec and obtained in 2011 a master's degree, followed by a PhD in 2015 in Parasitology at McGill University. From 2015 to 2016, Dr Godoy did a first postdoctoral internship at the Research Center of the CHUM followed by a second postdoctoral internship from 2016 to 2019 at Concordia University. Since March 1, 2019, Dr Godoy has joined the Faculty of Veterinary Medicine at the Université de Montréal, as assistant professor in parasitology.

Dr Godoy's main research interests are veterinary helminths, anthelmintic resistance and host-parasite interactions.
